Feats and Evolutions

Honolulu sat up and took notice this morning of the greatest military pageant ever witnessed on Oahu. More men were in line than ever before, for the reason that a majority of the commands located in the Hawaiian department have been recruited up to almost full strength during the past year. This also is true of the national guard of Hawaii, represented in the parade by nine companies, while the Kamehameha cadet battalion, in natty grey uniforms with white trimmings brought up the rear of the long line in a most military-like fashion.

Along the line of march were scattered thousands of spectators who cheered to the echo the boys of Uncle Sam, regular, volunteer and cadet, being meted out full measure of applause. Honolulu was glad and typical Hawaiian weather beamed down upon the merry throng. Old Sol entering into the spirit of the occasion with right good will, King street from Ania park to the reviewing stand at the intersection of King, Richards and Merchant streets was thickly lined with residents and visitors and as the soldiers passed in splendid formation with hands beating forth familiar warlike tunes the spirit of the occasion was diffused and all became, for the time being at least, a unit of the great military organization which commands the respect of the entire world and dominates the American continent.

Gen. Macomb Leads Column
Brigadier-general Montgomery M. Macomb, commander of the Hawaiian department, accompanied by his personal and department staff, led the column. General Macomb has been at the head of every military parade of the past few years and is a familiar and popular figure with Honolulu people.

Following the commander came Company I, 3rd Battalion of engineers, commanded by Captain Warren T. Hannum. Next in the line of march was the 1st Hawaiian brigade, commanded by the senior colonel, Colonel George K. McGinnis. Then came the 1st Infantry in command of Colonel Howell, attached; the 2nd Infantry, Colonel French; and the 25th Infantry, Colonel Kennon, following in the order named. Each of these regiments was headed by its band and each made a splendid showing. The provisional regiment of coast artillery, commanded by Colonel Rafferty, came next. The coast defenses turned out eight companies, which marched as though infantry drill was their principal business in life. Next in order came the 1st Field Artillery, Colonel Sturgis, and the 4th Cavalry, Colonel Beach. The mounted troops made a splendid showing. Field Company E, signal corps, closed the column of regulars. This hard working outfit, commanded by Captain Gibbs, is as efficient as any organization in the army and in a year's stay in Oahu has an unusually thorough knowledge of the island.

Nine companies of the 1st Infantry, National Guard of Hawaii, commanded by Colonel Coyne and led by the Hawaiian band, came next. The three absent companies are located on the outside islands, this being the reason for their absence. It was the general opinion that the regiment, which has recently been recruited up to strength, and which has taken a new lease of life, so to speak, made as good a showing as the regular army. Numerically, of course, it was weaker, the companies marching with two platoons, three squads to a platoon, while the regulars marched in four-squad front. Company H, the Chinese-American company, set a new record for militia turn-out here, by assembling eight squads. This would have given the company an extra squad in each platoon, and at the last moment the company commander was ordered to detach two squads, one of which went to C and the other to D company, which were not able to turn out the full quota. It was a big disappointment to the H company men, who have counted on being the largest company in line. Being the color company, the numerical showing would have been particularly noticeable. The three

MILITARY FIELD DAY SHOWING BEST ENDEAVORS OF THE ENLISTED MEN

National Guards Vying with the Regulars in Service Prowess at Kapiolani Park

The military field day, or tournament, which commenced at Kapiolani park this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and in which every arm of the service is joining is expected to be the greatest exhibition of the kind ever witnessed in these islands.

Each arm of the service is demonstrating its proficiency in its own particular line of endeavor, while the contests between the various regiments are highly exciting and may establish records in several events. The teams in these tests are identified by the color of the flag each carries. The 1st, 2d and 25th regiments will carry light blue flags, with the number of the regiment in the center of the bunting. The cavalry will display a yellow flag, the coast artillery red, the 1st field artillery red and dark blue, engineers red and white, signal corps orange, marine corps red and khaki, and the national guard of Hawaii yellow and purple.

Below is a schedule of the events as they are taking place; with the troops contesting and the judges of each:

1. First pull, dismounted tug-of-war—2d Infantry vs. coast artillery corps. Judges: Captain Mason, Lieutenant Lyman and Lieutenant Robertson.
2. Second pull, dismounted tug-of-war—25th Infantry vs. 1st Infantry. Judge: Captain Mason, Lieutenant Lyman and Lieutenant Longenecker.

FIGHT OVER RULES EXPECTED IN REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Interpretation of Direct Primary Law Differs with Different Party Factions

For the purpose of adopting new rules governing the Republican party in the territory, delegates from all the precincts on the islands will meet in convention at Ye Liberty theater tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Already a greater number of the 140-odd delegates who will assemble tomorrow have reached the city; and consequently the streets are a-buzz, politics being the topic of discussion. One important subject of this pre-convention discussion is on the election of temporary and permanent chairmen, and a number of names are already heard for these places. William Thompson, delegate from the fifth precinct of the fourth district, is said to be in line for the permanent chairmanship of the convention, and Lorrin Andrews, of the same district but of the eighth precinct, is said also to be after the place. For Kauai, Senator Charles Rice is said to have declared that a delegate from his island should be given the chairmanship this year; and it is expected that the Kauai delegates will make a strong stand to win the honor. Local delegates look to see J. H. Coney, one of the Garden Island delegates, advanced for the place.

Robert W. Shingle, chairman of the Republican territorial central committee, not being a delegate—he withdrew after being nominated by his precinct—will take no active part in the convention. He said this morning that he did not know the delegates likely to be named for the chairmanships.

E. P. Fogarty, delegate to the ninth precinct, fourth district, is spoken of for secretary of the convention. His is the only name heard so far as a candidate for that place.

Radical Changes Likely.
Radical changes in the old rules, made necessary or thought proper in view of the enactment of the direct primary law, which obviates the necessity of most party conventions, have been prepared tentatively, and these also to be after the place.

GRAND MILITARY BALL TO BE THE CROWNING SUCCESS OF CARNIVAL

Chairman Atkinson Has Completed Plans for Affair at Armory at 9 o'clock

Chairman A. L. C. Atkinson, in charge of the grand military ball at the armory this evening that will bring to a close the most successful Carnival ever undertaken in Honolulu, has completed all arrangements for this premier event. This ball is given by Director-general Dougherty and the officers of the Mid-Pacific Carnival in honor of Gen. M. M. Macomb, commanding the Hawaiian department, and his staff, in recognition of the untold assistance and co-operation which the army men have given in making this year's Carnival season the great success it has been.

On the reception committee will be Brigadier-general and Mrs. M. M. Macomb, Director-general and Mrs. James D. Dougherty, and Governor L. E. Pinkham. Lieutenant N. W. Campa, assisted by five officers to be chosen by himself, will be in charge of the floor. Receiving at the entrance will be the former directors-general of the Mid-Pacific Carnivals.

"The music will be continuous," said Mr. Atkinson this morning. "When the Royal Hawaiian band lets up the Kaal quadruple-quintet will open up and it will be one merry round of dancing. This is a stunt that I learned in my college days and I think it will make a hit. When I was at Ann Arbor the students would choose a girl and monopolize her for the entire evening. This is not made as a suggestion, but any who follow it will be paying a compliment to my alma mater."

The invitations, of which 2700 have been issued, are for 9 o'clock. The grand march, to be led by Brigadier-general and Mrs. Macomb, will start at 9:30 o'clock. After this the music will be continuous until after midnight.

DOCTORS LOST IN MOUNTAINS BACK OF CITY

A.C. Rothrock and A.R. Thomas Late in Returning from Hike to Konahuani

Two search parties left Honolulu at an early hour this morning in the endeavor to locate Dr. A. C. Rothrock and Dr. A. R. Thomas, the former resident physician of the Queen's hospital and the latter an interne at the same institution, who were believed to be lost in the mountains back of the city, possibly in the region of the Fall or of Konahuani, the second highest peak on Oahu.

All fears for the safety of the physicians, however, were set at rest shortly after noon today, when, accompanied by several members of the first search party, they returned to the hospital. According to their story, they attempted to make the trip from Konahuani to the Fall. They succeeded in reaching the bottom of the gulch, where they found that it would be impossible for them to go further. By the time they had retraced their steps back to the top of the peak it was dark and, not knowing the trails, decided to camp there for the night. This morning they met the search party, with which they returned. Three members of the search party continued to Konahuani, where they will attempt to cross from there to the Fall.

The physicians left the hospital at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, intending to take a hike to Konahuani. No one accompanied them, and they informed friends that they would return at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Both
